NEW YORK. Metro spoke to several of Weiner's constituents, who were heartbroken that he stepped down.

"We didn't expect him to resign," said Georgia Gandin, 76, of Sheepshead Bay. "I feel bad for him."

"It was blown out of proportion," said JP Keng, 21, of Sheepshead Bay. "The other politicians threw him under the bus."

"He did a good job for years, that should count for something," added Judy Nudelman, 84, of Sheepshead Bay. "They all lie — Clinton, Schwarzenegger, Spitzer — why'd they pick on Anthony?"

After days of stubborn refusal to give up his seat amid scandal, Rep. Anthony Weiner resigned from office Thursday, costing the Democratic party one of its most outspoken voices.

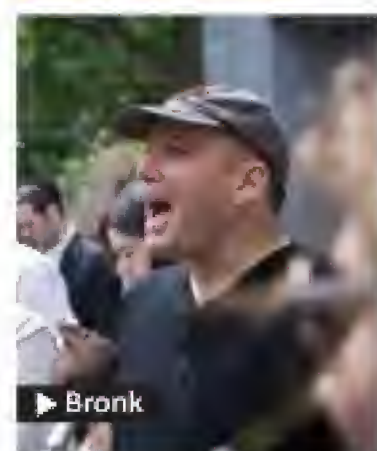

In the crowded senior center in Sheepshead Bay where Weiner first began his political career 20 years ago, the shamed congressman took the stage alone to end a weeks-long scandal.

"I had hoped to be able to continue the work that the citizens of my district had elected me to do," Weiner said. "Unfortunately, the distraction that I have created has made that impossible, so today I am announcing my resig-

A staff member from "The Howard Stern Show" heckled Weiner when he spoke.

Weiner decided to resign after speaking with Abedin, according to reports, who returned from an overseas work trip with Hillary Clinton this week.

A special election will now be held for Weiner's 9th District congressional seat.

Democratic leaders pressured Weiner to resign, including President Barack Obama, fearing he had become a political liability. Weiner was also a front-runner in the 2013 New York mayor's race.

NY Giants hero hates gay love

► David Tyree warns of 'anarchy' should state legalize gay marriage
► Last-minute attempt to pass bill

DAVID BRADIK/CETTY IMAGES

► Former Giants wide receiver David Tyree warned gay marriage will lead to anarchy.

As New York state legislators are scrambling in an eleventh-hour attempt to pass historic gay marriage legislation, a beloved New York Giants champion has come out against it.

David Tyree, the former Giants player who caught the Super Bowl-winning pass in 2008, said gay marriage should not be legalized in a video he taped for the National Organization for Marriage.

Tyree, a devoted Christian, deemed that, "Two men will never be able to show a woman how to be a woman. And that is just simple."

According to Tyree, legalizing gay marriage could potentially lead to anarchy.

"If they pass this gay marriage bill, what I know will happen is this will be the beginning of our country sliding toward ... it's a strong word but, anarchy," said Tyree. "That will be the moment in our society where it will lose its grip."

The state Senate needs only one more vote to pass a proposed gay marriage bill; 32 senators are required for the bill to be passed. As of now, 31 are in favor.

Mayor Michael Bloomberg traveled to Albany Thursday to petition senators to vote in favor.

The senators have until Monday, when the legislative session ends, to decide whether everyone should be able to say "I do."

CAROLINE MANDERSSON

Correction

An article in Tuesday's Metro New York, headlined "DA: Abusers get off far too easily" stated that the Sanctuary for Families group opposes a bill that would make repeated offenses of domestic violence a felony crime. In fact, as the group's testimony given on June 13 makes clear, the group fully supports the bill. The group opposes a separate bill that would create crimes of domestic abuse in the first and second degree because, the group says, it permits violent abusers to substitute "anger management" classes for criminal sanctions. Metro regrets the error and apologizes for it.

SHOE SEARCH FOR

Life is a race to accomplish and always has been. This hit home for me when reading one of the "Little House on the Prairie" books to the kids. Whether it's making bullets for a gun to keep wild animals from eating your children or increasing your company's Twitter followers to drive sales, we always fill our lives with work as a means to an end.

Shoes was the big topic yesterday — namely, children's shoes for school. With the weather turning warmer, our boys would prefer to go barefoot at all times and only put on sandals when threatened with bodily harm. Barefoot is great in the backyard but doesn't fly at school. Our second-grader demanded to wear his favorite: ratty old flip-flops that are falling apart and barely fit anymore. He knew we'd say "no," and made his case so well he practically had a flip chart and laser pointer. After wasting a few precious minutes on back and forth, knowing we were about to miss the bus, we invoked both tough love and the tagline for our network by saying, "Fine. Watch what happens." Sure enough, an e-mail came in with a heads-up that he'd be coming off the bus in loaner shoes, reminding us of the closed-heel, closed-toe policy. At the bus stop, discussion ensued. Socks and sneakers would be an obvious choice, but our little metro-man-in-training insisted that look wouldn't be cool with shorts. Because of course, being cool is vital. And who am I to discount his opinion — don't his father and I spend countless hours dreaming up the perfect outfits for every occasion?

We headed to the local shoe store with his 5-year-old brother along for the ride — they've both grown so quickly this year that the only hand-me-downs that don't look or smell like death are all too small. Closed toe, closed heel, no cartoon characters and nothing that lights up so as not to distract or give anyone seizures. I made the mistake of mentioning this on Facebook or Twitter or somewhere, and dozens of parents tweeted back that we should lighten up on the shoe search. We did wind up with a good compromise — the kids picked out breezy sneakers with cutouts and each got a light-up yo-yo as well. My husband spent the next half hour waxing nostalgic and showing them how to "walk the dog" and "rock the cradle." Fine, everyone wins as long as they don't try "around the world" inside.

State's rent laws hang in balance

New York state's rent laws expired on Wednesday and the Republican-controlled Senate failed to pass an extension Thursday that would have protected thousands of New York City apartment-dwellers.

More than 1 million apartments in New York City are subject to rent regulations, which limit how much landlords can charge.

Gov. Andrew Cuomo, a supporter of rent control who wants the law expanded, berated the Legislature for allowing rent control laws to expire without a safety net. He threatened to keep elected officials in Albany past when their scheduled session ends Monday if no deal can be reached.

"The Senate's failure to act ... was unacceptable and a betrayal of the 1 million tenants living in rent-protected apartments," said Cuomo. "I will not allow the Legislature to go home until tenants are protected."

The Democrat-controlled Assembly wants to renew and strengthen rent control laws.

But the Republican-controlled Senate only wants to extend them.

SUMMER ARTS GUIDE 2011

► From the creators of "South Park," "The Book of Mormon" is fresh off sweeping the Tonys.

1 Shakespeare in the Park – The can't-miss event of every summer, the Bard's works come to Central Park — and it's free! Two shows play in repertory through July 30: "All's Well That Ends Well" and "Measure for Measure." www.shakespeareinthepark.org

2 'Hair' – The latest incarnation of the 1968 favorite is back on Broadway after its national tour. There's a strict two-month engagement (July 5-Sept. 10), so you'll want to plan ahead for what may be your last chance to catch the 2009 Tony Award-winning musical about making love, not war. www.hairbroadway.com

4 'Sleep No More' – Extended twice due to popular demand, the new end date to Punchdrunk's sensational, immersive theater experience is Sept. 5. Though snagging tickets is competitive and discounts are sparse, the "Macbeth" reinvention is worth the effort to see before it disappears like a dream from NYC. www.sleepnomorenyc.com

5 'The Book of Mormon' – If you can get tickets to this sold-out smash hit — and winner of nine Tonys — we suggest you do so. The creators of "South Park" deliver a ribald musical about not only Mormonism, but the inherent humor and heart behind all religious dogma. www.bookofmormonbroadway.com

This season, the New Museum (www.newmuseum.org) presents "Ostalgia," featuring the work of more than 30 contemporary artists from 20 countries, mainly from Eastern Europe and the former Soviet Republics, from July 14 to Sept. 25. "Ostalgia" will showcase work not normally shown in the U.S. and is curated to show how art reflects the dramatic changes and upheaval since the fall of communism.

live amphibians at "Frogs: A Chorus of Colors," which is back by popular demand through Jan. 2012.

Adults will linger for AMNH's "Picturing Science: Museum Scientists and Imaging Technologies," which opens June 25 and presents 20 sets of large-format prints initially created for scientific knowledge but that actually resulted in art.

MoMA PS1 (www.psl.org) has "Ryan Trecartin: Any Ever" on view Sunday through Sept. 3. The artist's video installations will take over the museum's first-floor main gallery.

Brooklyn-based visual artist Kate Fauvell is on a mission, and you can help. For her new project, titled "1.1," Fauvell — also a school teacher — will attempt to create 101 million life-size drawings and paintings to represent each child enrolled in NYC public schools. The images will then be in a gallery show, as well as placed on the walls of various schools around the city. Her overall goal for the project is to call attention to the needs of these children and to the public school system itself. To read more and find out how you can donate to the cause, visit: www.kickstarter.com and search for "Fauvell."

Bonus: Donations of $25 and up will receive a piece of art created by Fauvell. METRO/REP

Music festivals

A whole new Ball

What sets the inaugural Governors Ball apart from other fests is that there are no overlapping sets, eliminating the need for debate over where and for whom to spill sweat. One producer behind the bash, taking place on Governors Island, co-president of Founders Entertainment Jordan Wolowitz, insists there's no formula for devising a killer summer concert, though there are a few key ingredients: "Rule No. 1 when it comes to booking is that I'll only put on events featuring acts that I would personally pay to see."

Diversity is also essential, so long as the artists — from hip-hop to electro-pop — share a common goal. In the case of Governors Ball, it's to make you bust a move. Headliners include mash-up mastermind Girl Talk, psychedelic duo Empire of the Sun, synth superstar Pretty Lights and rapper Big Boi. When booking talent, Wolowitz explains that the biggest draw is the overall vision of the festival and for younger bands, it's a chance to perform in front of a larger crowd than they would on a club tour. What else might attract an all-star lineup? Mutual respect, says the promoter. "Girl Talk and Big Boi are fans of each other's work and have performed together live."

Limited capacity on the island means the audience gets in on the intimacy, too. In fact, Wolowitz says location is a core reason that the Governors Ball outshines its rivals.

"Most major music festivals are destination events — you have to travel and be inconvenienced to attend," he says, adding that getting to the all-day dance-a-thon requires just a quick ferry ride from downtown Manhattan.

Metro's Monica Weymouth shares her take on the world of gossip t @monicaatmetro ■ monica.weymouth@metro.us

— Dorothy Robinson will return on Monday

So, how do we apply to be Ryan Reynolds?

Today's "what world do you people live in?!" moment is brought to you by Blake Lively, who co-stars in "Green Lantern" this weekend with Ryan Reynolds.

How did the actress try to "sabotage" her super-fit leading man? Take it away, Blake: "I would cook for the entire crew and I would try to lure him into eating some of the treats," she tells UsMagazine.com. "Cupcake lollipops, fresh candies, homemade caramel and marshmallows covered in chocolate — stuff like that."

The horror! And how do you feel about it, Blake? "I am a horrible person!"

We don't even care if she's joking. Does she have any idea — any at all — how happy some free stale doughnuts can make most workplaces? And to have someone even a fraction as hot as Blake Lively serving them?

Blake, we hope there's a newsroom in your near, unfortunate future.

► Don't you hate when you have to go to red carpet events with your gorgeous co-workers?

Hugh Hefner's revenge

Well, this is embarrassing: Crystal Harris is on the cover of the July Playboy wearing not much more than her now-ex's silk robe. It's too late to change the "Introducing Crystal Hefner" headline, so what did Hef do? Strategically slapped a big "Runaway bride in this issue!" sticker on her. A little awkward, sure, but in the realm of naked-ex revenge pictures, it's actually pretty tasteful.

Second life for Gaga's dress

Remember the "meat dress" Lady Gaga wore to the MTV Video Music Awards last year? It's now on display at the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, although not before some preservation work. "The dress was kept in a meat locker until the treatment was ready to begin," the Hall said in a statement to CNN.com. "It was then placed in a vat of chemicals and, while still pliable, was put on a body form and allowed to dry." Admittedly, we almost like it in zombie form.

Talking points

Aniston getting serious

Things are reportedly moving fast for Jennifer Aniston and her rumored new boyfriend, Justin Theroux, according to Us Weekly. "He's living at her place in L.A.," a source says. "And she's introducing him as her boyfriend." Theroux also has an apartment in New York, which he'd shared with his girlfriend of 14 years, costume designer Heidi Bivens, until

Christina Aguilera

Bivens moved out last weekend, sources say. Previously, Theroux had usually stayed at the Chateau Marmont when in Los Angeles.

Christina on her divorce

Christina Aguilera is opening up about her recent divorce, telling W Magazine that she and ex-husband Jordan Bratman share the blame for their marriage ending. "At one time or another we were both not angels," Aguilera says. "It got to a point where our life at home was reminding me of my own childhood. I will not have my son grow up in a tension-filled home." And the singer, who's no stranger to life in the public eye, knew it wouldn't be an easy process: "I knew there would be a negative reaction in the press to my divorce, but I am not going to live my life because of something someone might say."

Be nice to Britney!

Justin Timberlake is coming to ex-girlfriend Britney Spears' defense after the "Femme Fatale" singer has been hit with a deluge of criticism online for her current dance moves. "This thing that happens online bothers me — these anonymous [commentators]," he tells Playboy. "People think they can say anything and it doesn't matter to people. I'd love to see the people who comment about Britney online say those things to her face, because they couldn't."

New York inches closer to legal gay marriage

► Politicians work to finalize support ► NY would be largest state to allow same-sex unions ► Advocates hope to celebrate after years of lobbying

Gay couples at the altar might soon be a reality, after New York politicians scrambled all week to secure the votes to pass same-sex marriage legislation.

Governor Andrew Cuomo introduced a bill Tuesday to legalize gay marriage, something he said he would not do unless he could be sure it would pass.

"I am very excited," said Anthony Brown, executive director of The Wedding Party, which supports gay couples and families.

Earlier this week, a fleet of senators who were undecided signaled their support for the bill, leaving supporters needing just one more Republican vote to pass.

"I think I'm doing the right thing," said Roy McDonald, a Republican who lent his support this week.

The bill would allow marriages 30 days after its passage. In a nod to conservatives, the bill includes language that exempts religious institutions from marrying gay couples.

The road to legalization has been a rocky one, with a bill failing several times in the Senate, most recently in 2009. Advocates received strong support from the governor, who promised during his campaign to make same-sex marriage a priority in his first year.

Brown said the move was bittersweet, because he already married his husband in Canada.

"We love New York so much," he said. "We wanted to celebrate here, but it wasn't an option for us."

Now, he said, he can celebrate with others who no longer face constraints.

"All of our friends who have considered it an option or thought about it, now it may actually be a reality," he said.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. For those of you who have been putting forth a lot of effort for others, rewards will begin to roll in. It could turn out to be an impressive cavalcade.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Don't discard any ideas you get, even if some of them are grandiose and totally different from what others concoct. This is what produces big things.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Instead of following guidelines put out by the establishment, follow your own perceptions on certain commercial matters of interest. You may spot what the bigwigs fail to see.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. This could be quite a day for you, with several pleasant surprises in the making. You and your companions will each in their own way be lucky for one another.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. It behooves you to focus on only the most important things when it comes to choosing which assignments confronting you are the most important at this time.

♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. Regardless of how many assignments you have to do or which ones you think will generate the most good for the majority, you'll handle it quite well, because you'll do your best.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Before the day is over, something extremely nice is likely to happen. Chances are it will have to do with adding to your financial well-being.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. The busier you are, the more effectively you'll perform. When you start to accelerate, the more focused you'll become, making both your mind and body operate at high efficiency.

MAVERICKS CENTER TYSON CHANDLER MOCKING MIAMI DURING DALLAS' CHAMPIONSHIP CELEBRATION

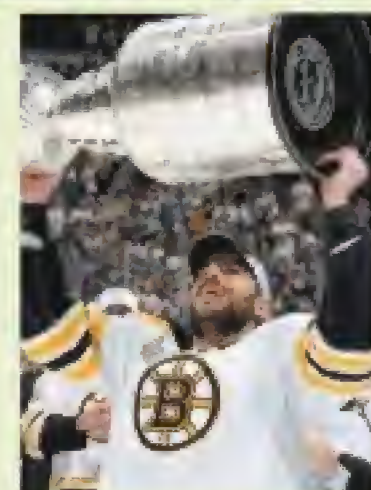

Welcome to titletown, MIA

► Boston spoiled with championships ► Beantown has won seven titles across four major sports since '02 ► Here are teams that really need rings

It'd be nice to have cheerleaders back in the Super Bowl.

Next NHL dynasty

More Cups on the way?

This Stanley Cup may only be the beginning for Boston. The Bruins needed 39 years to close their Cup chasm, but like their peers, the Patriots and Red Sox, franchises that also needed decades to win championships, the B's are poised to turn this into a dynasty.

Patrice Bergeron, David Krejci, Milan Lucic, Nathan Horton, Brad Marchand, Tyler Seguin: All 26 or younger. All will back next season. And general manager Peter Chiarelli should have about $10 million under the salary cap to add more pieces.

● METRO

Most desperate

Metro's list of franchises most in need of a title:

- 1. Ohio: The Browns haven't won a title since 1964, the Bengals haven't had a playoff win since 1990. It's been a dark year and existence for Ohioans.

- 2. Cubs: The most tortured fan base in America and quite possibly the most cursed. The Cubbies have not won the World Series since 1908.

- 3. Maple Leafs: Forbes lists Toronto as the most valuable franchise in the NHL, but the Original Six member hasn't lifted a Stanley Cup since 1967.

- 4. Jaguars: A Super Bowl might be the only way to avoid relocation.
- 5. Lions: A sorrier city than even Cleveland, Detroit hasn't won a championship since 1957 and hasn't made the playoffs since 1999.

- 6. Kings: In the same boat as the Jags. Nothing Jimmer can't save.
- 7. Royals: Realignment would give one of the top 10 sports cities in America reason to cheer.
- 8. Knicks: The NBA is better with a winner in New York.

The Knicks would be better with some defense.

- 9. Vikings: Lost on Favre and in four Super Bowls.
- 10. Boise: BCS be damned!
- 11. Suns: Get Nash a ring.
- 12. Cowboys: America's team has one postseason win since 1996.

Converted OF surprises on hill

- Gordon limits Rangers in first major league start
- This nobody could be a somebody in Yanks' rotation

AL BELLONETTI IMAGES

► Brian Gordon allowed two earned runs on seven hits in 5 2/3 innings on Thursday.

Wednesday he caught the eye of a passer-by as he played long toss at a park outside Yankee Stadium.

"Good arm!" the scavenger shouted.

On Thursday, he was throwing heat past Texas' bats inside Yankee Stadium.

Welcome to the whirlwind life of Brian Gordon, the journeyman converted outfielder who won this week's TBA competition to replace Bartolo Colon and earned another start Tuesday in Cincinnati.

The 32-year-old righty did not get the decision in a 3-2 victory over Texas that was decided on Brett Gardner's base hit in the 12th, but he did more than enough to put the Yankees in position for the victory.

"Right now, I got chills but it's special," Gordon said. "It was just unbelievable. This is the greatest stage in baseball and you're one of the five guys [in the rotation]. I'm enjoying it. It's truly special."

So are his circumstances. Gordon only joined the Yankees after going 5-0 with a 1.14 ERA in Triple-A

Open weekend

Metro's wish list for this weekend at the U.S. Open:

- Don't choke, kid
Rory McIlroy leads by three after shooting a 6-under 65 in the first round. The 22-year-old from Northern Ireland who choked away the lead on the back nine at Augusta hit 17 greens in regulation at Congressional.
- Come back, Lefty
Phil Mickelson (3-over) double-bogeyed his opening hole and hit just five fairways. We know he has a drunken drive, but it can't continue to land him so deep in the cabbage.
- American dreams
Fifteen Americans are even par or better. Zach Johnson is a sleeper. METRO
